2015 Course Renovations:

You will see some cast iron silhouettes on our course. This is a project started by the Jefferson City Cross Country Booster Club with the help of friends of the program, Kevin and Debbie Jungmeyer, Dennis Licklider, and Donnie Whitener. Generous donations by the Jungmeyer family have been put to use to make our course at Cole County Park something special for the athletes. We have placed eight cast iron silhouettes around the course. The first one put in the ground, which is at the 1100-meter mark across the lake, is a silhouette of Kyle Billington. Kyle is the son of Debbie Jungmeyer. Kyle was a Jefferson City High School graduate and an avid road racer. He was training for a marathon when he tragically lost his life in 2006 at the young age of 26. Debbie and Kevin have held the Kyle Billington Memorial Race every July in his honor for the past 11 years. They have partnered with the Jays and Lady Jays track and cross country teams and have made kind donations to be used for the track and cross country athletes. Some proceeds from that race are being put to use in the creation of these silhouettes. The remaining silhouettes in the ground represent the different parts of the state of Missouri. Just as you enter Cole County Park the silhouette of the capitol dome depicting the capital city and central Missouri is visible. At the 500-meter mark of the course the iron silhouette of the horse and rider represents the pony express and is representative of the northwest portion of the state. Seven hundred meters in is a depiction of waterfowl taking flight off water and that is representative of the ample river systems of Missouri's southeast. Eight hundred meters in you will see the Kansas City Royals crown and Chiefs arrowhead, obviously representing the state's second largest city. At approximately the mile mark is the silhouette of a river boat steering wheel, representing the northeast. Just down the hill from the paddlewheel is the unmistakable image of the St. Louis Arch, representing, of course, the gateway city. Finally, 100 meters south of the arch is the silhouette depicting historic Route 66, for the southwest corner of Missouri.

We thank the Jefferson City Jaycees and the Cole County Park authorities for use of their facilities. We ask that you assist us in cleaning up after yourselves.
